Allied Precision Industries Purchases Garden Scene Brand and Product Line

Allied Precision Industries acquires most powerful brand in flower pots and watering cans

Elburn, IL, June 25, 2010(Allied Precision Industries) - Allied Precision Industries announced today the acquisition of the majority of Lawn & Garden assets formerly belonging to Duraco Products. In addition Allied Precision also purchased the name and trademarks which include Duraco Products, Garden Scene and Garden Lite. Duraco Products was the leading manufacturer plastic flower pots, watering cans and bird baths. Duraco Products was recognized in the marketplace for product development, breadth of product line and cutting edge colors.

Allied Precision Industries will integrate their pre-existing Lawn & Garden skus into their Garden Scene brand, effective immediately. With the product mix offered by the combined product lines, Allied Precision Industries will become the preeminent manufacturer of watering cans, birdbaths, flower pots and yard décor.

"Garden Scene brand has long been recognized as the leader in the flower pot and watering can markets for years" says Allied Precisions' National Sales Manager, Sal Occhipinti. "Allied Precision Industries now has the most comprehensive product selection in the industry. Allied Precision Industries will continue to manufacture all of its plastic Lawn & Garden line in the USA. Allied will manufacture in Illinois and will distribute the entire product line in our new 112,000 square foot distribution center in Bolingbrook, Illinois"

Full integration of the Allied Precision Industries product line into the Garden Scene brand is expected to take six weeks. Once complete, retailers will be able to consolidate vendors and offer more U.S.A. made, high quality products for every budget. Retail buyers are being urged to consolidate vendors, and in a category as large as Lawn & Garden accessories, Allied Precision is uniquely qualified to be a single source vendor.

Allied Precision Industries is a sixty-year-old company and is the market leader in heated pet, agricultural and birding items. Allied Precision Industries' core product lines are problem solving, innovate, energy efficient and all come with a manufacturer's warranty. With the acquisitions of Duraco Products and the financial backing of an established sixty-year-old market leader, Allied is poised to become the premier year round supplier in each of its categories.
